

The Birds of Vermont Museum & Green Mountain Audubon Center

June 16, 2018 (Saturday)

At the Birds of Vermont Museum, you will develop identification skills, explore the Natural/Unnatural Trail, investigate the different bird species in forest upland and successional habitats. Learn what kind of birds are at your feeders, explore pollinator gardens, and more.

The Green Mountain Audubon Center is a 255-acre exhibit with an incredible diversity of habitats. Over five miles of hiking trails wind their way through forests, along the Huntington River, the edges of brooks and beaver ponds and through meadows and hayfields.
